EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, APRIL 23

THE Lisbon Patriot is supporting Allen W. Thurman for governor. Poor Thurman.

THE press of advertising in the News Review today is another proof that the business men of this city recognize it as the leading afternoon paper of this community.

WEYLER has turned his attention from Cuban soldiers to Cuban girls, and the stories of cruelties practiced by men under his direction are harrowing in the extreme.

NOT satisfied with news of a first-class war in the East and a fierce conflict almost at their very doors, the fiery people of Honduras have started to fight among themselves.

EVEN though the completed tariff bill will have no retroactive clause the effect will be the same. That little move prevented thousands upon thousands of dollars from coming into this country in manufactured wares.

ON the subscription rolls of the Grant monument association are the names of 90,000 Americans, each one a tribute to the great soldier whose last resting place will be marked by a tomb worthy its illustrious occupant.

THE last reported aspirant for senatorial honors is Tom Johnson, Cleveland's curly headed politician, and they say he is preparing to enter the contest with his usual energy. But the story prompts the question, "What doth it profit him?"

SOME farmers in the northern part of Ohio have refused to give agricultural statistics to assessors on the ground that the figures would be used to influence the markets. It is needless to say that these men voted for Mr. Bryan and free silver last fall.

THE East Palestine Echo takes entirely too seriously the printed report that the hill above Walker is sliding into the river. After awhile our neighbors will learn that it is not always best to believe everything one hears about East Liverpool.

THE crockery trade is good. While it is not what it should be nor what it will be after the tariff bill becomes a law, it is so much better than during Mr. Cleveland's administration that it cannot fail to excite comment where the people know most about it.

THE STATE TICKET.

THE news comes from Washington that John McLean and his friends are daily laying plans which they fondly hope will result in the capture of the state next November. James E. Campbell, Paul Sorg, Lewis Bernard and others of the inner circle have been to see the ambitious millionaire, and there they talked it all over. McLean wants Sorg to run for governor, and Sorg will not do it. Others are suggested, but McLean is bossing the job, and because he does not like them their chances are slim. His anxiety for Sorg's nomination is believed to arise from the fact that the tobacco man is rich enough to become a senatorial candidate too, and thus endanger McLean's chances. What the outcome will be has not yet been determined, but it is safe to guess that the ticket to be nominated by the next Democratic convention will be made up in Washington long before the faithful of the state assemble.

Jumped the Track.

CAR No. 10, of the street railway, jumped the track in the square at Wells-ville, last evening, and delayed traffic about an hour. A stone caught in a frog was the cause.

Will Go to Marietta.

THE Bell telephone men who have been working in this city for some time, will leave this evening for Marietta.

GREAT LAND SALE!

The Chester Land Company

WILL ON. TUESDAY, APRIL 27,

AT 1:30 O'CLOCK P. M.,

AGAIN PLACE THEIR LOTS UPON THE MARKET.

This will give to the people of East Liverpool and vicinity an opportunity to get a home at hitherto unheard of prices. These lots were placed upon the market last fall for a period of five weeks, and we then sold over $39,000 worth of property, and were then taken off the market until now. This property it is unnecessary to describe to our citizens, as it is so well known to all, being that beautiful level river front and bottom land lying immediately opposite East Liverpool, between the new bridge and Rock Spring Pleasure Resort. The lots are all large and level, mostly 40x140 feet, and fronting on wide beautiful streets. These lots we propose selling at last year's prices, which range from $200 to $500 a lot, and on terms to suit the purchaser. Special inducements to purchasers on the opening day, so intending buyers should be on hand and thus save a liberal discount.

What Has Chester to Offer to Intending Purchasers? Chester is, from a commercial standpoint, a part and parcel of East Liverpool, one of the most progressive cities of a population of 15,000 to be found anywhere; where real estate can be had in Chester for from $300 to $500.

Chester will be connected with East Liverpool inside of the next 20 days with an electric railway. The Panhandle railroad will be extended this summer, and when this is done we will have two factories located in Chester which will give employment to 500 skilled workmen, which alone will insure a population of 2,000 people. This, with the natural overflow from our already crowded and thickly built city insures for Chester a population of several thousand people. Do not stand back and say this cannot be, for we have already demonstrated to this community our ability to work out problems of this character.

Chester is no myth, as many of our wealthiest and most influential citizens are placing their money there. Some of them have already erected substantial business buildings, and others are preparing to do so, and before the snow falls we shall see a thrifty little city of considerable magnitude.

Chester is located in West Virginia, the home of low taxation, taxes being 8-10 of 1 per cent. Speculators and investors, no such an opportunity for large returns on your money has ever knocked at your door, and perhaps will never come again. Those who are wise will be on hand and avail themselves of this great opportunity to secure a valuable lot for a small amount of money. The sale will commence on the ground Tuesday, April 27, 1897, at 1:30 o'clock p. m. For further information address

MAP OF THE SEAT OF WAR.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

How It Was Finally Brought About.

SIMPLE STATEMENT OF THE FACTS.

Claims of the Greeks and of the Porte. The Island Always a Storm Center. Why the So Called Organic Statute Failed—The Armies, the Commanders and the Seat of War.

The immediate cause of the war between Greece and Turkey, according to the claims of the Greeks, is due to the action of the Greek irregulars in penetrating Macedonia and attacking various minor Turkish posts, responsibility for which the Greek government avows. The latter, on the other hand, lays the onus on the Turks, who advanced into Thessaly. This resulted in a sharp conflict between bodies of the regular troops at the town of Nezeros, which lies immediately under the shadow of Mount Olympus, the fabled home of the greater gods of the ancient Greeks.

The Greeks, who must be considered the aggressive party, say they sent troops to the island of Crete to oppose the Turks because the latter were massacring the Christians. A further cause for the belatedness is their impatience because the reforms imposed upon Turkey by the great powers have not been put into execution.

But it is necessary to go back much farther to understand the primary cause of this great eastern crisis. Crete was the last of the Turkish conquests in Europe, having been captured from the Venetians after a desperate struggle. Like Ireland, Crete was imperfectly conquered at the beginning, and the flame of discord has been kept alive in the island owing to the existence of a large minority differing in race from the bulk of the population and maintained in a privileged position by the ruling power. A disturbing influence was also exercised from without, for the Greeks of the mainland have always fostered the revolutionary element among their brethren.

Shortly after the Turkish conquests a large number of the Greek inhabitants, through one cause or another—it may have been compulsion, or possibly it was fear and self interest—embraced the creed of Islam, and of course thus effectually dissolved all ties of blood, language and tradition. Today the Mussulman Greek of Crete is to all intents and purposes a Turk and is so regarded by his Christian kinsmen. Crete, however, played an important part in the Greek war of independence, and it would have been made a part of the new Hellenic kingdom if the European powers had kept their hands off, but they insisted in forcing Crete back under the Turkish rule and encouraging Turkey to retake it. After an insurrection which lasted over three years, and which cost the Turkish and Egyptian treasuries some $30,000,000, a scheme of reform known as the "organic statute" was drawn up. This measure appeared to concede a large amount of self government to the island. It gave it a legislative assembly and judicial system of its own. The latter, however, was merely a mockery, and the former was reduced to a mockery by being forbidden even to discuss any matter which had not previously received the sanction of the government.

Thus the organic statute proved a failure and the island became as discontented as ever. Another insurrection occurred in 1878, and in the fall of that year, through the mediation of England, a compact was drawn up which retained the general system of the organic statute, but provided for its more practical application. This was not satisfactory to the Cretans, however, and they soon divided into two parties. Intrigue followed intrigue, and only one man has had the courage to hold the office of civil governor for a full term. All the others were driven to resign it.

A crisis came in 1889. The governor considered it to be his constitutional duty to bestow a certain number of appointments on the Liberals, and the Conservatives thereupon took up arms and withdrew to the mountains. Then the half-dormant fanaticism of the people became aroused and the island was again plunged into civil war. In the space of a few months about 100 Christians and Mussulmans were murdered. Nine thousand dwelling houses, 152 schools, 57 mosques and 14 churches were burned. Property to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth was destroyed. The insurgent Christians, however, got the worst of it. The porte soon became master of the situation and proclaimed martial law. The compact of 1878 was practically abrogated, and for the next five years Crete was ruled autocratically by a succession of Mussulman governors.

The attention of the powers was attracted to the unhappy state of the island, and toward the end of 1894 the porte was induced to select a Christian named Alexander Karathodory Pasha as governor. He seemed to be acceptable to both Christians and Mussulmans. The assembly met again for the first time since 1889 and passed some good laws. But these were vetoed by the porte, and trouble again began. Finally in March of last year the Christian governor was recalled, and Turkish Pasha, a Mussulman, was appointed in his stead. The change seemed to satisfy everybody, Mussulman as well as Christian. The number of murders on both sides increased. Turkish showed considerable energy in punishing the guilty and in upholding the law, but the revolt continued, and disturbances were rife all last summer. Greece sent considerable aid to the Christian Cretans, and this led Russia and Germany to propose blockading the island, but Great Britain refused to sanction such a scheme, and the project was therefore abandoned.

A plan of reforms was agreed upon by the powers last September and accepted by the sultan. There was to be a Christian governor, who should appoint the subordinate officials, two-thirds of them Christian and one-third Mussulman, and other reforms were agreed upon which promised to be advantageous to the Christian Cretans. For one reason or another, however, they were not carried out. Thus the present acute crisis ensued, and it derives its importance from the intervention of Greece. The annexation of Crete to Greece has been proclaimed, and Greek troops have taken possession of the island, with the exception of a few ports which are held by the fleets of the powers.

The inhabitants of Crete, both Christians and Mussulmans, seem to approve of the annexation, and there is reason to believe that even the porte itself would not strenuously object to it. But Russia and Germany have done all in their power to prevent it. The alternative offered is a measure of autonomy. At the beginning of the year that would probably have been accepted. Now it is regarded with suspicion, as a mere ruse of the powers to throw Crete back under unrestrained Turkish rule.

The Turkish commander is one Edham Pasha. He saw service in the Turco-Russian war as colonel and brigade commander, but he has had no experience in the leadership of a large army. Prince Constantine, the commander of the Greek army, has a military training which is purely that of the academy and drill ground, and there seems to be no general under him who has had a different experience. In numbers the Turkish army of advance is far larger than the Greek forces, and there is reason to expect that the latter may get the worst of it at the outset. The Greeks, however, have the best reason to look for efficient help from their large body of irregulars, which have been pouring into Macedonia and Epirus. From this source the tide of uprising against Turkish rule promises to swell into a great volume. Other elements that favor the Greeks are the facts that the fighting will be in Hellenic territory, which the Greeks know thoroughly, and the whole of the nation is on fire with passionate enthusiasm.

All that the great powers can do just at present is to look on and localize the conflict as far as it is possible. But the issue is not merely between Turkey and Greece, nor the question merely the government of Crete. A war between Turkey, all of whose traditions are despotism, and Greece, all of whose traditions are liberty, may easily involve before it be completed all Europe in a war between absolutism and democracy. It may result in an uprising throughout Europe until every government east of Russia is revolutionized and make liberalism dominant from the Mediterranean to the Baltic.

The accompanying map gives a good general idea of the country in the neighborhood of the Greek Turkish frontier, where the hostile armies confront one another. It is extended south to show the geographical relations of Athens and the present region of conflict. The frontier extends from the Ionian sea at the gulf of Arta, on the west, to the gulf of Salonika, near Mount Olympus, the fabled home of the old Greek deities, on the east.

In moving the Greek troops to the north they were embarked on shipboard at the Piræus, the port of Athens, and sailed down the gulf of Aegina to the Aegæan sea, and then north to the port of Bolos, also known as Volo. This port is connected with Larissa by rail, and a few hours after landing the troops were in Larissa, the present headquarters of the Greek army at the front. The Turkish city of Salonika has been the gathering point of the Turkish forces. Salonika is at the head of the gulf of Salonika, 65 miles northeast of the town of Ellassona in Macedonia. Ellassona is the headquarters of the Turkish forces in Macedonia. The Turkish troops have reached this town and other points along the Turkish military front by two routes. A part of them have gone west by rail to Verria from Salonika and then marched south to Ellassona, a distance of 45 miles.

For some weeks the Turks have had a very considerable army posted all along the frontier from Ellassona to Janina, with other forces on the gulf of Arta. The Greeks have also spread a part of the troops they concentrated at Larissa along the frontier from Nezeros, south of Mount Olympus, to the western border of Thessaly. At Grevena in Macedonia the Turks have had an entire division, including infantry, cavalry and artillery, under the command of Haki Pasha. The Greek insurgents pushed northward nearly to Grevena before they were beaten back.

The most of Thessaly is a vast plain with ranges of hills. In no other part of Greece could troops be so easily maneuvered over so large a territory. Macedonia and Albania, on the Turkish side of the border, on the contrary, are exceedingly mountainous. As compared with Thessaly, the Turks have in their frontier territory a far greater number of strategic points that are not difficult to defend.

The main difficulty with all this territory on both sides of the border, from a military point of view, is the entire lack of good roads. Many of the roads affording the only means of transit are mere bridge paths, and all the roads are narrow and in bad condition.

The powers are plainly in alliance with Turkey in this crisis, but the consciousness and sympathy of the people are largely in favor of Greece. This latter ally should not be despised.

MOTHER MCKINLEY REACHES 88.

A Letter Received by Her From the President—Many Callers.

CANTON, O., April 23.—Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley, mother of President McKinley, is 88 years old. Scores of friends, neighbors and others called. Among the letters received was one from the president.

Mother McKinley seems to be enjoying the best of health, although slight tinges of rheumatism occasionally manifest themselves and her right arm is slightly crippled, compelling her to greet her many callers with her left hand.

A company of about 100 women, composed of members of Cleveland Sorosis, Akron New Century club and Canton Sorosis, called to extend congratulations on behalf of their clubs. Before they left Mother McKinley was fairly hidden behind a profusion of flowers.

Short addresses were given by Mrs. W. G. Rose, on behalf of the Cleveland women; Mrs. Baird, for Akron, and Mrs. Sherwood, for Canton.

Members of Mother McKinley's household and a few very intimate friends took supper and passed the evening together. Her daughter, Mrs. Duncan, of Cleveland was present.

The president remembered his aged mother by sending her a box of choice flowers from the White House conservatory. A congratulatory telegram was also received from him.

Mother McKinley says the day was a very pleasant one to her and she expressed much gratification over the receipt of numerous congratulations and flowers.

Another Prizefighter Hurt.

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 23.—Matt Semichy, a local lightweight pugilist, is in the county jail. Frank Evans, better known as "Kid" Evans, his opponent, in a boxing bout, has concussion of the brain and has been lying in an unconscious condition since he received the knockout blow.

RETAKEN BY GREECE.

Gritzovali Recaptured From the Turks.

THE SULTAN SCARED BY BULGARIA

Representative of That Country Making Strong Demands, Accompanied by Threats—Greece Sends a Mission to Turkey—Greek Peasants Fleeing.

LARISSA, April 23.—The latest news from the district of Kurtisvali (probably identical with Gritzovali) is that the place has been recaptured by the Greeks.

ODESSA, April 23.—A special mission from the Greek government has passed through this city en route to St. Petersburg.

ATHENS, April 23.—A dispatch from Larissa says that the Greek artillery at Reveni were reinforced and have reduced Vigla to silence. This will enable the brigades of Colonel Smolentz and Colonel Dimopoulos to unite in a movement toward Damasi.

LARISSA, April 23.—Headquarters of the Greek army.—The latest advices as to the situation at Damasi show that the Turks made a sortie from the town and attacked the Greek position at Boughazi pass and Sideropoluki.

After severe fighting the Greeks drove the Turks back across the frontier with a loss of five guns.

The Turks have descended from Milouna pass on Kurtisvali. The result is not yet known here.

Four hundred members of the foreign legion, including 26 Englishmen under Captain Birch, have arrived here. They were received with a great demonstration, which was repeated on their departure for the frontier. Intense enthusiasm was caused among the Greeks when the Englishmen sang the Greek national war songs.

The Greek Evzones and a mountain battery having ascended the mountains east of the St. George monastery were taken by the Turks on the flank. After a severe fight lasting many hours the Turks who, on Monday, had driven the Greeks from Matti and Larissa, brought 250 Circassian cavalry from Ellassona. The Circassians began to extend into the plain, but, being raked by the Greek battery and by the Evzones, they were compelled to fall back on Larissa with great loss.

A portion of the fleeing Turks have recrossed the Milouna pass toward Ellassona. The Greek infantry extending in a semi-circle from Tynovo to Kurtisvali, and supported by artillery, all well handled, after a hard day's fighting drove back the Turks upon Larissa. It is understood that the latter are retreating in force toward Ellassona.

The estimation in which the Turks are held is shown by the stampede of the whole population on the frontier. The villages and roads to Larissa are literally blocked with fugitives, herds of cattle, horses and donkeys, women and children on foot, old women carrying chairs, beds and household gear on their backs, on donkeys, in ox wagons and in every conceivable sort of vehicle.

The scene is heartrending and reminds one of Pliny's description of the flight from Pompeii after the eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

Larissa is overcrowded. Food is scarce; the hospitals are full, and there is an urgent appeal for nurses and surgical assistance. The wounded are arriving hourly and all the surgical operations must be performed without chloroform, as there is none to be had.

Chief Davellis and the survivors of his band of irregulars have returned here from their raid into Macedonia.

PARIS, April 23.—There has been a great stir outside the offices of the Greek legation. A crowd clamored to be sent as volunteers to Greece. The embassy replies to all such requests that it has received no instructions coming from the Greek government on the subject, and is therefore not empowered to send volunteers to the scene of hostilities.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 23.—There is much concern among the Turkish government officials on account of Bulgaria's persistent claims for berats, for five additional Bulgarian bishops in Macedonia and for the appointment of Bulgarian commercial agents at Uskub and Monastir. The Bulgarian representative here, D. Markoff, had an audience with the sultan on the subject and informed his majesty that unless the berats were conceded by today Bulgaria would begin to mobilize her army tomorrow. The sultan promised to grant the berats, but asked Bulgaria to be patient until the war with Greece is over. His majesty also granted Bulgarian commercial agents at Uskub and Monastir. In spite of this the Bulgarian representative presented an ultimatum at the yildiz kiosk and subsequently the Russian embassy informed the Bulgarian representative that the moment was inappropriate for insisting upon the sultan granting the berats' adding that Russia would not support the demand if the Bulgarian army was mobilized and that the responsibility for the consequences would fall exclusively upon Bulgaria.

LONDON, April 23.—A special dispatch from Athens says that offers of help are reaching the Greek government from all quarters, and the military authorities expect to have 40,000 volunteers enrolled under the Greek flag before the beginning of next week.

The Epitrotes at Athens are preparing to leave that city in order to assist the Greeks in capturing Epirus as far as the Berlin treaty line.

The National League of Greece has advanced the passage money for 1,000 Garibaldians, who are expected at the Piræus immediately.

The pan-Hellenic steamer Albanian is on her way to Rimini to embark 3,000 Italians, who, the Greek minister at Rome telegraphs, are ready to fight for Greece. The son of Garibaldi, the dead Italian patriot, will fight for Greece.

GREAT LAND SALE!

The Chester Land Company

WILL ON TUESDAY, APRIL 27,

AT 1:30 O'CLOCK P. M.,

AGAIN PLACE THEIR LOTS UPON THE MARKET.

This will give to the people of East Liverpool and vicinity an opportunity to get a home at hitherto unheard of prices. These lots were placed upon the market last fall for a period of five weeks, and we then sold over $39,000 worth of property, and were then taken off the market until now. This property it is unnecessary to describe to our citizens, as it is so well known to all, being that beautiful level river front and bottom land lying immediately opposite East Liverpool, between the new bridge and Rock Spring Pleasure Resort. The lots are all large and level, mostly 40x140 feet, and fronting on wide beautiful streets. These lots we propose selling at last year's prices, which range from $200 to $500 a lot, and on terms to suit the purchaser. Special inducements to purchasers on the opening day, so intending buyers should be on hand and thus save a liberal discount.

What Has Chester to Offer to Intending Purchasers? Chester is, from a commercial standpoint, a part and parcel of East Liverpool, one of the most progressive cities of a population of 15,000 to be found anywhere; where real estate is high and advancing daily; where a good residence lot anywhere near the center of the city will cost you from $3,000 to $5,000. Why pay such fabulous prices when a better lot can be had in Chester for from $300 to $500.

Chester will be connected with East Liverpool inside of the next 20 days with an electric railway. The Panhandle railroad will be extended this summer, and when this is done we will have two factories located in Chester which will give employment to 500 skilled workmen, which alone will insure a population of 2,000 people. This, with the natural overflow from our already crowded and thickly built city insures for Chester a population of several thousand people. Do not stand back and say this cannot be, for we have already demonstrated to this community our ability to work out problems of this character.

Chester is no myth, as many of our wealthiest and most influential citizens are placing their money there. Some of them have already erected substantial business buildings, and others are preparing to do so, and before the snow falls we shall see a thrifty little city of considerable magnitude.

Chester is located in West Virginia, the home of low taxation, taxes being 8-10 of 1 per cent. Speculators and investors, no such an opportunity for large returns on your money has ever knocked at your door, and perhaps will never come again. Those who are wise will be on hand and avail themselves of this great opportunity to secure a valuable lot for a small amount of money. The sale will commence on the ground Tuesday, April 27, 1897, at 1:30 o'clock p. m. For further information address

MAP OF THE SEAT OF WAR.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

How It Was Finally Brought About.

SIMPLE STATEMENT OF THE FACTS.

Claims of the Greeks and of the Porte. The Island Always a Storm Center. Why the So Called Organic Statute Failed—The Armies, the Commanders and the Seat of War.

The immediate cause of the war between Greece and Turkey, according to the claims of the Greeks, is due to the action of the Greek irregulars in penetrating Macedonia and attacking various minor Turkish posts, responsibility for which the Greek government avows. The latter, on the other hand, lays the onus on the Turks, who advanced into Thessaly. This resulted in a sharp conflict between bodies of the regular troops at the town of Nezeros, which lies immediately under the shadow of Mount Olympus, the fabled home of the greater gods of the ancient Greeks. The Greeks, who must be considered the aggressive party, say they sent troops to the island of Crete to oppose the Turks because the latter were massacring the Christians. A further cause for the belatedness of their intervention is the delay in the Turkish government's response to the ultimatum imposed upon Turkey by the great powers have not been put into execution. But it is necessary to go back much further to understand the primary cause of this great eastern crisis. Crete was the last of the Turkish conquests in Europe, having been captured from the Venetians after a desperate struggle. Like Ireland, Crete was imperfectly conquered at the beginning, and the flame of discord has been kept alive in the island owing to the existence of a large minority differing in race from the bulk of the population and maintained in a privileged position

Shortly after the Turkish conquest a large number of the Greek inhabitants, through one cause or another—it may have been compulsion, or possibly it was fear and self-interest—embraced the creed of Islam, and of course thus effectually dissolved all ties of blood, language and tradition. Today the Mussulman Greek of Crete is to all intents and purposes a Turk and is so regarded by his Christian kinsmen. Crete, however, played an important part in the Greek war of independence, and it would have been made a part of the new Hellenic kingdom if the European powers had kept their hands off, but they insisted in forcing Crete back under the Turkish rule and encouraging Turkey to retake it. After an insurrection which lasted over three years, and which cost the Turkish and Egyptian treasuries some $30,000,000, a scheme of reform known as the "organic statute" was drawn up. This measure appeared to concede a large amount of self government to the island. It gave it a legislative assembly, but they insisted in forcing Crete back under the Turkish rule and encouraging Turkey to retake it. After an insurrection which lasted over three years, and which cost the Turkish and Egyptian treasuries some $30,000,000, a scheme of reform known as the "organic statute" was drawn up. This measure appeared to concede a large amount of self government to the island. It gave it a legislative assembly, but they insisted in forcing Crete back under the Turkish rule and encouraging Turkey to retake it.

A plan of reforms was agreed upon by the powers last September and accepted by the sultan. There was to be a Christian governor, who should appoint the subordinate officials, two-thirds of them Christian and one-third Mussulman, and other reforms were agreed upon which promised to be advantageous to the Christian Cretans. For one reason or another, however, they were not carried out. Thus the present acute crisis ensued, and it derives its importance from the intervention of Greece. The annexation of Crete to Greece has been proclaimed, and Greek troops have taken possession of the island, with the exception of a few ports which are held by the fleets of the powers. The inhabitants of Crete, both Christians and Mussulmans, seem to approve of the annexation, and there is reason to believe that even the porte itself would not strenuously object to it. But Russia and Germany have done all in their power to prevent it. The alternative offered is a measure of autonomy. At the beginning of the year that would probably have been accepted. Now it is regarded with suspicion, as a mere ruse of the powers to throw Crete back under unrestrained Turkish rule.

The Turkish commander is one Edhem Pasha. He saw service in the Russo-Turkish war as colonel and brigade commander, but he has had no experience in the leadership of a large army. Prince Constantine, the commander of the Greek army, has a military training which is purely that of the academy and drill ground, and there seems to be no general under him who has had a different experience. In numbers the Turkish army of advance is far larger than the Greek forces, and there is reason to expect that the latter may get the worst of it at the outset. The Greeks, however, have the best reason to look for efficient help from their large body of irregulars, which have been pouring into Macedonia and Epirus. From this source the tide of uprising against Turkish rule promises to swell into a great volume. Other elements that favor the Greeks are the facts that the fighting will be in Hellenic territory, which the Greeks know thoroughly, and the whole of the nation is on fire with passionate enthusiasm.

All that the great powers can do just at present is to look on and localize the conflict as far as it is possible. But the issue is not merely between Turkey and Greece, nor the question merely the government of Crete. A war between Turkey, all of whose traditions are despotism, and Greece, all of whose traditions are liberty, may easily involve before it is completed all Europe in a war between absolutism and democracy. It may result in an uprising throughout Europe until every government east of Russia is revolutionized and make liberalism dominant from the Mediterranean to the Baltic.

The accompanying map gives a general idea of the country in the neighborhood of the Greek-Turkish frontier, where the hostile armies confront one another. It is extended south to show the geographical relations of Athens and the present region of conflict. The frontier extends from the Ionian sea at the gulf of Arta, on the west, to the gulf of Salonika, near Mount Olympus, the fabled home of the old Greek deities, on the east.

In moving the Greek troops to the north they were embarked on shipboard at the Pireus, the port of Athens, and sailed down the gulf of Egeia to the Egean sea, and then north to the port of Bolos, also known as Volo. This port is connected with Larissa by rail, and a few hours after landing the troops were in Larissa, the present headquarters of the Greek army at the front. The Turkish city of Salonika has been the gathering point of the Turkish forces. Salonika is at the head of the gulf of Salonika, 65 miles northeast of the town of Ellassona in Macedonia. Ellassona is the headquarters of the Turkish forces in Macedonia. The Turkish troops have reached this town and other points along the Turkish military front by two routes. A part of them have gone west by rail to Verria from Salonika and then marched south to Ellassona, a distance of 45 miles.

For some weeks the Turks have had a very considerable army posted all along the frontier from Ellassona to Janina, with other forces on the gulf of Arta. The Greeks have also spread a part of the troops they concentrated at Larissa along the frontier from Nezeros, south of Mount Olympus, to the western border of Thessaly. At Grevena in Macedonia the Turks have had an entire division, including infantry, cavalry and artillery, under the command of Hakki Pasha. The Greek irregulars pushed northward nearly to Grevena before they were beaten back.

The most of Thessaly is a vast plain with ranges of hills. In no other part of Greece could troops be so easily maneuvered over so large a territory. Macedonia and Albania, on the Turkish side of the border, on the contrary, are exceedingly mountainous. As compared with Thessaly, the Turks have in their frontier territory a far greater number of strategic points that are not difficult to defend.

The main difficulty with all this territory on both sides of the border, from a military point of view, is the entire lack of good roads. Many of the roads affording the only means of transit are mere bridle paths, and all the roads are narrow and in bad condition. The powers are plainly in alliance with Turkey in this crisis, but the conscience and sympathy of the people are largely in favor of Greece. This latter ally should not be despised.

MOTHER MCKINLEY REACHES 88.
A Letter Received by Her From the President—Many Callers.

CANTON, O., April 23.—Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley, mother of President McKinley, is 88 years old. Scores of friends, neighbors and others called. Among the letters received was one from the president. Mother McKinley seems to be enjoying the best of health, although slight tinges of rheumatism occasionally manifest themselves and her right arm is slightly crippled, compelling her to greet her many callers with her left hand. A company of about 100 women, composed of members of Cleveland Sorosis, Akron New Century club and Canton Sorosis, called to extend congratulations on behalf of their clubs. Before they left Mother McKinley was fairly hidden behind a profusion of flowers. Short addresses were given by Mrs. W. G. Rose, on behalf of the Cleveland women; Mrs. Baird, for Akron, and Mrs. Sherwood, for Canton. Members of Mother McKinley's household and a few very intimate friends took supper and passed the evening together. Her daughter, Mrs. Duncan, of Cleveland was present. The president remembered his aged mother by sending her a box of choice flowers from the White House conservatory. A congratulatory telegram was also received from him. Mother McKinley says the day was a very pleasant one to her and she expressed much gratification over the receipt of numerous congratulations and flowers.

Another Prizefighter Hurt.
SAN JOSE, Cal., April 23.—Matt Semichy, a local lightweight pugilist, is in the county jail. Frank Evans, better known as "Kid" Evans, his opponent, in a boxing bout, has concussion of the brain and has been lying in an unconscious condition since he received the knockout blow.

HOLMAN KILLED BY A FALL

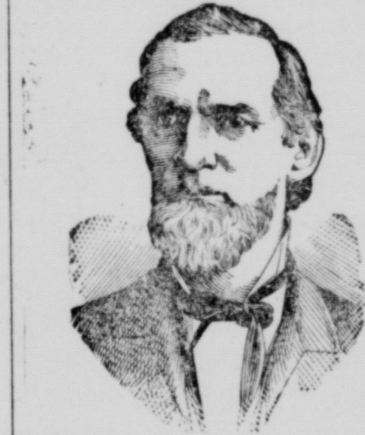

The Cause of the Hoosier Statesman's Death—His Career.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Judge Holman's death was due primarily to a fall he sustained early this month as the result of an attack of vertigo. He soon complained of feeling badly and his condition grew steadily worse until last Tuesday. Then he rallied somewhat and the improvement gave his family encouragement in hoping for his recovery.

The rally, however, was brief. Meningitis developed and since then he has rapidly been sinking. He passed away without regaining consciousness. At the deathbed were gathered his four children, Mrs. R. E. Fletcher, W. S. Holman, Jr., Mrs. Fred Harvey and Paul Holman, all of this city.

William Steele Holman had 16 terms in the house of representatives, and in all 54 years of his life was spent in some public capacity, beginning with a judicial position in his native state and winding up in the house of representatives, which he first entered in Thirty-sixth congress. Mr. Holman was a great force in political affairs and was an honored and respected counselor in the Democratic party caucuses. As the "Watchdog of the Treasury" he was known to the American people owing to his policy of strict economy when in charge of the appropriation bills.

Mr. Holman was born in Dearborn county, Ind., in September, 1822. He had a common school education, supplemented by a two year's course in Franklin college, Indiana. Then he taught school and practiced law until 1843, when, at the age of 21 years, he entered the public service as probate judge. He was prosecuting attorney from 1847 to 1849, and in 1850 he attended the constitutional convention. The following year he entered the legislature and from 1852 to 1856 he was judge of common pleas. His congressional career began with the Thirty-sixth congress and out of the 20 congresses that have elapsed since that time he has been absent from only four, namely, the Thirty-ninth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth and Forty-fourth, an almost unparalleled record.

NEW NAME FOR REED.

Morgan Calls Him the "Great White Flibuster"—Attacks the Disorganized Condition of the Senate—Bankruptcy Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—One of the most eventful sessions since congress assembled, has occurred in the senate. It opened with a proposition for an official expression of sympathy to the Greeks in their struggle with Turkey. This was soon merged into a turbulent debate over the disorganized state of the senate, during which Senator Morgan characterized Speaker Reed as the "great white flibuster." Later in the day the Nelson bankruptcy bill was passed by the decisive vote of 49 to 8.

Mr. Allen (Neb.) offered the resolution providing that the chief executive express the sympathy of the American people to the government of Greece. The senator declared that the present contest was one between Christianity and paganism. At the request of Mr. Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, the resolution was referred. Mr. Davis promising speedy action.

The debate on senate committees aroused Mr. Morgan to a speech of unusual severity. He spoke of "dictatorships" of the subordination of public business to politics. He characterized the condition of inaction in the house of representatives as the "most gigantic and unheard of flibuster" ever attempted.

In conclusion, Mr. Morgan said that the speaker of the house, who had been known as the "great white czar," should be hereafter known as the "great white flibuster."

Another stirring chapter to the same subject was added by Mr. Allen, who proposed a complete cessation of senate business, except to consider appropriation bills, until committees were filled. The resolution led to another heated debate, in which Messrs. Chandler, Gear and Allen participated. The resolution finally went over.

The bankruptcy bill as passed is the substitute framed by Mr. Nelson (Minn.). The success of this substitute in displacing the committee bill was a great surprise and disappointment to the judiciary committee, which had reported a comprehensive bill, known as the Torrey bill. It was regarded as a personal triumph of Mr. Nelson.

The Nelson bill, as passed, provides for voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy, but the theory of its author was to free it from harshness and make it of substantial benefit to debtors and creditors.

The "free homestead" bill was made the unfinished business of the senate. A committee of 15 senators was named to participate in the Grant ceremonies.

On the announcement of the death of Representative Holman, the senate adjourned as a mark of respect, the adjournment being until next Monday.

Strike May End Monday.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 23.—The American Tube and Iron company's plant will probably start again Monday. At a meeting 180 of the 350 strikers were present and of those, 164 voted to return to work at the reduction. The men were assured that the old rate of wages would be restored as soon as the conditions of trade would warrant it. Nearly all the threading floor employees still refuse to accept the cut, but the rest of the men say they can suit themselves about going back.

D. M. OGILVIE & CO.

Special Sale of Ribbons.

A firm in New York wrote us that they had taken the liberty to send us 50 pieces of ribbon, and that they were such excellent values that they hoped we could use them. Well, they were better than we expected to find them. They include Roman stripes, in all colors, large and small checks, plain gros grain, printed warps, plain and changeable moire tafettas, a few gauze, plain centres, with fancy colored edge, and no two pieces alike. The widths are from 30 to 60, and are just the thing for collars, dress trimmings, or any other use you may have for ribbons.

Saturday morning we will offer 10 pieces of them at 25 cents and 40 pieces at 29c. Investigate this and we know we will sell the goods.

The Shirt Waist Season

Opens with what promises to be, the greatest output ever known. We believe we have bought to fit the occasion and fill the demand. We believe we show a greater variety of styles and prices than you will be able to find anywhere else in town. All prices, from 50c to $3.50. In a great many of the finer ones we have but one of a color, in a particular kind of goods. We think this will be appreciated, as we do not mean to duplicate them. Now as the weather warms up and makes people think of such things, do not put it off until the best are sold.

Wash Dress Goods.

A lot of dimities, about 25 pieces, all colors, and we think excellent values, 10c a yard.

Better dimities in blue and white; also lappet mulls and other kinds of goods at 18c a yard.

A lot of black and black, with small pattern in color, at 25c.

Single organdie dress patterns, in all colors and color combinations, at $4.50 and $5 per suit, giving you a chance to get a pattern that will not be duplicated.

Lace Curtains.

Selling lots of lace curtains, as we are showing the best assortment and values we have ever offered. Prices from 40c to $10 per pair.

Curtain Swisses, curtainette, and different kinds of draperies, at the right prices. A lot of new drapery silks, in beautiful patterns, most of them 50c a yard. Pongee draperies, an excellent assortment, at 12c. And a great many other things you will need at this time of year.

Ready Made Suits and Skirts.

Skirts in all colors and styles of goods, at prices ranging from $1.98 to $12.50. Suits from $7.50 to $15, and cheaper than you can get them up. A few good things in Bicycle Suits.

HOLMAN KILLED BY A FALL

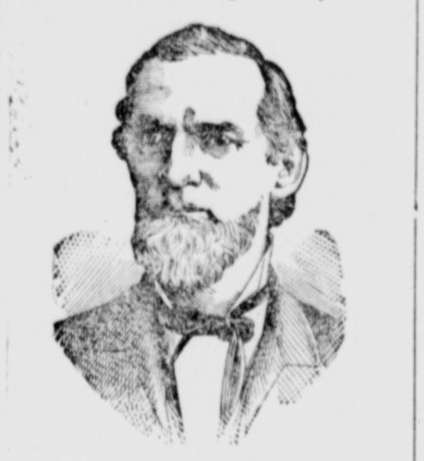

The Cause of the Hoosier Statesman's Death—His Career.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Judge Holman's death was due primarily to a fall he sustained early this month as the result of an attack of vertigo. He soon complained of feeling badly and his condition grew steadily worse until last Tuesday. Then he rallied somewhat and the improvement gave his family encouragement in hoping for his recovery.

The rally, however, was brief. Meningitis developed and since then he has rapidly been sinking. He passed away without regaining consciousness. At the deathbed were gathered his four children, Mrs. R. E. Fletcher, W. S. Holman, Jr., Mrs. Fred Harvey and Paul Holman, all of this city.

William Steele Holman had 16 terms in the house of representatives, and in all 54 years of his life was spent in some public capacity, beginning with a judicial position in his native state and winding up in the house of representatives, which he first entered in Thirty-sixth congress. Mr. Holman was a great force in political affairs and was an honored and respected counselor in the Democratic party caucuses. As the "Watchdog of the Treasury" he was known to the American people owing to his policy of strict economy when in charge of the appropriation bills.

Mr. Holman was born in Dearborn county, Ind., in September, 1822. He had a common school education, supplemented by a two year's course in Franklin college, Indiana. Then he taught school and practiced law until 1843, when, at the age of 21 years, he entered the public service as probate judge. He was prosecuting attorney from 1847 to 1849, and in 1850 he attended the constitutional convention. The following year he entered the legislature and from 1852 to 1855 he was judge of common pleas. His congressional career began with the Thirty-sixth congress and out of the 20 congresses that have elapsed since that time he has been absent from only four, namely, the Thirty-ninth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth and Forty-fourth, an almost unparalleled record.

NEW NAME FOR REED.

Morgan Calls Him the "Great White Filibuster"—Attacks the Disorganized Condition of the Senate—Bankruptcy Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—One of the most eventful sessions since congress assembled, has occurred in the senate. It opened with a proposition for an official expression of sympathy to the Greeks in their struggle with Turkey. This was soon merged into a turbulent debate over the disorganized state of the senate, during which Senator Morgan characterized Speaker Reed as the "great white filibuster." Later in the day the Nelson bankruptcy bill was passed by the decisive vote of 49 to 8. Mr. Allen (Neb.) offered the resolution providing that the chief executive express the sympathy of the American people to the government of Greece. The senator declared that the present contest was one between Christianity and paganism. At the request of Mr. Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, the resolution was referred. Mr. Davis promising speedy action.

The debate on senate committees aroused Mr. Morgan to a speech of unusual severity. He spoke of "dictatorships" of the subordination of public business to politics. He characterized the condition of inaction in the house of representatives as the "most gigantic and unheard of filibuster" ever attempted.

In conclusion, Mr. Morgan said that the speaker of the house, who had been known as the "great white czar," should be hereafter known as the "great white filibuster."

Another stirring chapter to the same subject was added by Mr. Allen, who proposed a complete cessation of senate business, except to consider appropriation bills, until committees were filled. The resolution led to another heated debate, in which Messrs. Chandler, Gear and Allen participated. The resolution finally went over.

The bankruptcy bill as passed is the substitute framed by Mr. Nelson (Minn.). The success of this substitute in displacing the committee bill was a great surprise and disappointment to the judiciary committee, which had reported a comprehensive bill, known as the Torrey bill. It was regarded as a personal triumph of Mr. Nelson.

The Nelson bill, as passed, provides for voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy, but the theory of its author was to free it from harshness and make it of substantial benefit to debtors and creditors.

The "free homestead" bill was made the unfinished business of the senate. A committee of 15 senators was named to participate in the Grant ceremonies.

On the announcement of the death of Representative Holman, the senate adjourned as a mark of respect, the adjournment being until next Monday.

Strike May End Monday.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 23.—The American Tube and Iron company's plant will probably start again Monday. At a meeting 150 of the 250 strikers were present and of those, 164 voted to return to work at the reduction. The men were assured that the old rate of wages would be restored as soon as the conditions of trade would warrant it. Nearly all the threading floor employees still refuse to accept the cut, but the rest of the men say they can suit themselves about going back.

Special Sale of Ribbons.

A firm in New York wrote us that they had taken the liberty to send us 50 pieces of ribbon, and that they were such excellent values that they hoped we could use them. Well, they were better than we expected to find them. They include Roman stripes, in all colors, large and small checks, plain gros grain, printed warps, plain and changeable moire taffetas, a few gauze, plain centres, with fancy colored edge, and no two pieces alike. The widths are from 30 to 60, and are just the thing for collars, dress trimmings, or any other use you may have for ribbons.

Saturday morning we will offer 10 pieces of them at 25 cents and 40 pieces at 29c. Investigate this and we know we will sell the goods.

The Shirt Waist Season

Opens with what promises to be, the greatest output ever known. We believe we have bought to fit the occasion and fill the demand. We believe we show a greater variety of styles and prices than you will be able to find anywhere else in town. All prices, from 50c to $3.50. In a great many of the finer ones we have but one of a color, in a particular kind of goods. We think this will be appreciated, as we do not mean to duplicate them. Now as the weather warms up and makes people think of such things, do not put it off until the best are sold.

Wash Dress Goods.

A lot of dimities, about 25 pieces, all colors, and we think excellent values, 10c a yard.

Better dimities in blue and white; also lappet mulls and other kinds of goods at 18c a yard.

A lot of black and black, with small pattern in color, at 25c.

Single organdie dress patterns, in all colors and color combinations, at $4 50 and $5 per suit, giving you a chance to get a pattern that will not be duplicated.

Lace Curtains.

Selling lots of lace curtains, as we are showing the best assortment and values we have ever offered. Prices from 40c to $10 per pair.

Curtain Swisses, curtainnets, and different kinds of draperies, at the right prices. A lot of new drapery silks, in beautiful patterns, most of them 50c a yard. Pongee draperies, an excellent assortment, at 12c. And a great many other things you will need at this time of year.

Ready Made Suits and Skirts.

Skirts in all colors and styles of goods, at prices ranging from $1 98 to $12 50. Suits from $7 50 to $15, and cheaper than you can get them up. A few good things in Bicycle Suits.

BOY HURT IN A TIN MILL.

Accidents at Irondale by Which Two Persons Were Badly Hurt—Railroad Officials Will Not Allow Loitering at the Station.

IRONDALE, April 23.—[Special]—While working in the clay mine of the Downer Brick company Harry Primrose was buried beneath a heavy fall of slate and earth. Parties working nearby succeeded in rescuing him, and he was taken home. There it was found that his injuries were severe, three ribs being broken. He also sustained internal injuries the extent of which has not yet been learned, but it is believed he will die.

Thomas Orrin, a youth employed at the tinmill, was hurt this morning. He was assisting in polishing the rollers when a part of the machinery gave way, and his arm was caught just above the wrist. The bones were broken. The lad refused to take an anesthetic while the injuries were being dressed.

Last Saturday night Isaac Housholder, Clyde Wilson, Fred Lacy and a number of others were acting in a disorderly manner at the passenger station. Officer Starkey arrested Housholder, and charged him with abusing an officer. Yesterday Detective Moore arrived in town and arrested the three men on a state warrant charging them with loitering. The railroad company will push the case.

The merchants have all signed an agreement to close their stores at 7 o'clock each evening. Those who violate it will pay $50.

Measles has appeared in Irondale, and there are cases here without number. To the present there have been no deaths, although a great many children are ill.

JEFFERSON'S INAUGURATION

The Story That He Rode on Horseback Unattended Was a Fake.

No inauguration myth has been more tenacious of life than that which pictured Jefferson, attired as a plain citizen, riding on horseback to the capital, hitching his horse to the palings and walking unattended into the senate chamber to take the oath as president. To have done this would have been in accordance with his previous utterances, for he had strongly condemned as savoring of monarchy all public ceremony at the swearing in of a president. When the time for his own inauguration arrived, however, the case seems to have looked different to him. Whether it was because he was to be the first president inaugurated at the new capital, or because of an unwillingness to disappoint the large numbers of his friends and partisans who had assembled to honor him, is not clear, but the fact is that he did permit a considerable display at the ceremonies. He was met at the door of his boarding house, which was only a stone's throw from the capital, by a militia artillery company and a procession of citizens, and, escorted by these, he went on foot to the capital.

The horseback story, or "fake," as it would be denominated in modern journalism, was the invention of an Englishman named John Davis, who put it in a book of American travels which he published in London two years later. In order to give it an air of truthfulness, Davis declared that he was present at the inauguration, which was not true. A veracious account of the ceremonies was sent to England by Edward Thornton, who was then in charge of the British legation at Washington, and in this Jefferson was described as having walked to the capital. These facts, together with a great mass of interesting matter about Jefferson's inauguration, are set forth in detail by Henry Adams in his "History of the United States" and leave no doubt that the Davis version was a pure fabrication.—Joseph B. Bishop in Century.

In Doubt. A certain minister, who is not always so careful as he ought to be in making his teaching and his practice correspond, was lately telling some friends a story of adventure. It was a pretty "tall" story, and the minister's 10-year-old little girl was observed to be listening to it very intently. When he finished, she fastened her wide open eyes upon her father's face and said very gravely, "Is that true, or are you preaching now, papa?"—Household Words.

A Slight Contrast. "What a stylish dress!" "Yes; it cost me $30. I had it made to wear to the last charity card party." "What does it cost to go to one of the parties?" "Twenty-five cents."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Tent Business in winter. Winter is a dull season in the tent business in this latitude and devoted chiefly to making up stock for summer. Some tents are exported, though not a great number. They are sent to Mexico, Central America and the West Indies. Such tents are sold the year around. They are used as quarters for laborers on railroads, canals and other works. The few tents sold in winter for use in this region are sold mostly to Gypsies, who buy in winter for summer use. They buy usually secondhand tents, and, buying in winter, they get good tents cheap. But little is done in renting tents in winter, though occasionally a large tent is rented for a cornerstone laying or some public ceremony, and in these modern days such tents are sometimes steam heated, the pipes being supplied with steam from portable boilers.—New York Sun.

Mohammed's Mare. The mare which conveyed Mohammed from earth to the seventh heaven was named Borak. She was milk white, had the wings of an eagle and a human face, with horse's cheeks. Every pace she took was equal to the farthest range of human sight. This was one of the ten animals admitted to the Mohammedan paradise.
